

Write a realistic fiction piece about your explorer. Pick your genre:

- first person science fiction—you travel back in time and join your explorer on his expedition
- first person narrative—telling the story through your explorer's POV
- first person series of journal articles—write as if you were on the expedition with your explorer
- second person “choose your own adventure” story
- third person historical fiction

Whatever you choose, do not veer off into fantasy. Do not change the facts. Stay grounded in history, conveying details of real events.